witnessed a prismatic reflection from the snow, forming a sort of rainbow. The weather was beautifully fine and bright; and the phenomenon was only noticed when we were at great elevations (above the snow-line), and emanated from points below us.' Some of the valleys he passed through were so deep and narrow that nothing living, not even a weed, was found in them.

Godley, A. D. Second strings. 8vo, pp. 99.

London, Methuen, 1902. 2/6 nett

Grand-Carteret, John. La montagne à travers les âges. Rôle joué par elle : façon dont elle a été vue. 1. Des temps antiques à la fin du dix-huitième siècle. 307 illustrations d'après les documents anciens. 4to, pp. xv, 559; numerous plates and illustrations.

Grenoble, Falque et Perrin; Moutiers, Ducloz, 1903. Fr. 40 for vols. 1 and 2.

Hintner, Dr. V. Die Stubai Ortsnamen mit Einschluss der Flur- und Gemarkungsnamen. Eine sprachliche Untersuchung. 8vo, pp. xv, 231.

Wien, A. Hölder, 1902

König, E. Alpiner Sport. Bibliothek für Sport und Spiel, 18. 8vo; ill.

Leipzig, Grethlein, 1903. M. 3,50

A good handbook, artistically illustrated.

Le Blond, Mrs. Aubrey. True tales of mountain adventure for non-climbers young and old. 8vo, pp. xvi, 299; ill. London, Unwin, 1903. 10/6 nett Machacek, Dr. Fritz. Gletscherkunde. 8vo, pp. 125; ill.

Leipzig, Göschen, 1902. Pfg. 80

This is no. 154 of the Sammlung Göschen, a series of good, cheap textbooks, one of which we have previously noticed, Dr. Sieger's Die Alpen. A clear account is given of all the conditions under which glaciers form, move, extend or retreat, and of their geographical distribution. The illustrations are well chosen to illustrate the appearance of snow-fields and glaciers.

Mazel, Antoine. La photographie artistique en montagne. 8vo, pp. xii, 184; plates.

Paris, Mendel [1902]. Fr. 6

Mont Blanc through the stereoscope. 8vo, pp. 174; map. 23 stereographs.

New York, etc., Underwood & Underwood, 1902. 23/-

These may be obtained at 3 Heddon Street, Regent Street, W.

Neufeld-München, C. A. Illust. Führer durch Boenien und die Hercegovina. 8vo, pp. 96; map, ill.

Wien, etc., Hartleben, 1903

Neve, Dr. Arthur. Picturesque Kashmir. Roy. 8vo, pp. xvi, 163; ill.

London, Sands, 1900

Contains well-illustrated accounts of the mountains and glaciers in the district, with description of some of the author's climbs, e.g. the ascent of Panimik Peak. On p. 143 the author, in connexion with this ascent, says: 'The inference appears to be that men may become rapidly habituated to living at an altitude. In many parts of Ladak there are goatherds who spend the summer months at a height no less than that of Mont Blanc. Such men would probably ascend another 10,000 feet with little inconvenience from the diminished pressure and decreased amount of oxygen.'

Paulcke, W. Der Skilauf. 2. Auf. 8vo, pp. 188.

Freiburg i. Br., Wagner, 1903. M. 2,50

Renk, Anton. Ueber den Firnen. Unter den Sternen. Gedichte. 8vo, pp. 206.

Linzi, etc., Oesterreich. Verlagsanstalt [1902]

Rivett-Carnac, Marion. Little Edelweiss in Switzerland. Adapted from the Swiss Veraes of Middle Goetz. Roy. 8vo, pp. 48; ill.

London, Duckworth, 1902. 3/6

A pretty little tale for children, of how a little Edelweiss, in obedience to the Rose Queen's call, left her home among the glaciers and descended to the valley: of what befell her there, and of how she returned to the mountain heights on a swallow's back.

* See 'Reviews and Notices' in this number.

- Rothpletz, A. Geologischer Führer durch die Alpen. 1. Das Gebiet der zwei grossen rhätischen Ueberschiebungen zwischen Bodensee und dem Engadin. Sammlung geologischer Führer X. 8vo, pp. xiv, 256; ill. Berlin, Gebr. Borntraeger, 1902. M. 4
A useful little handbook. Eighteen excursions covering the district are described from the point of view of geology.
- Saussure, H. B. L'ascension du Mont-Blanc. Extraits des relations de l'auteur précédés d'une notice par Léon Chauvin. 8vo, pp. 237; ill. Limoges, Ardant [1902]. Fr. 2
Extracts from Voyages dans les Alpes arranged as a school reading book.
- Story, A. T. Swiss life in town and country. 8vo, pp. x, 248; ill. London, Newnes, 1902. 3/6 nett
A good account of the present social, municipal and political conditions ruling in Switzerland.
- Stratz, R. La mort blanche. 3me édition, 12mo; pp. 312. Paris, Ollendorff, 1902
In vol. xx. p. 351 of this 'Journal,' we mentioned the fifth edition of the German original of this novel, 'Der Weisse Tod,' and now the French translation has reached a third edition. The central incident is an accident that happens to two climbers in a snowstorm on the lower part of the Matterhorn—the result of a deliberate tempting of danger, such as justified the opinion of 'un célèbre spécialiste pour les nerfs, qui avait signalé comme une forme de la folie la manie du sport alpin.'
- Telegraph Social Code, The viâ Eastern. 8vo, pp. 320. London, Hutchinson, 1902, 5/- nett
- Viollier, E. W. Le Val de Bagnes. Chables, Lourtier, Fionnay. 8vo, pp. 24; ill. Vevey (Sauberlein et Pfeiffer), 1902
A short guide to the climbing in the district.

Views of Meru, of which only three from the south have hitherto existed, are here given, taken from the north, south and south-east. These show it to be a finely shaped volcanic pyramid, presenting few mountaineering difficulties, and though over 15,000 ft. high showing no trace of snow. The first ascent, November 1901, by Dr. Uhlig and Lieut. Schieritz, is here described. They reached a point 300 feet lower than the highest summit, which they were unable to attempt from lack of time.

Tarentaise District.

POINTE DE LA GLIÈRE (11,109 ft.).—On July 29, 1902, Messrs. L. W. Rolleston and T. G. Longstaff climbed this peak by a route which appears to be partly new. The mule path is followed for a short distance from the Vanoise hut until the lower end of the moraines of the Grande Casse glacier is reached. Skirting round their foot, a short grassy slope is ascended to a low col, on the other side of which a small lake is shown on the French map. Snow slopes are then ascended to the (true) right side of the terminal ice-fall of the glacier which lies on a shelf to the S. of the peak. No difficulty was experienced in ascending this ice-fall—always keeping to the (true) right; but it is possible that stones occasionally
